

THE ADVENTURES OF CARLO—By A. B. FROST

Carlo's Homeward Progress

His Further Adventures Will Be Shown Next Sunday

"Holy Moses! look at them dogs!"

"Come along with me, doggie; I've got the finest bone you ever saw, an' a can of milk for you! Coom, nica littla dog, coom!"
Voice from the bushes: "Don'tcher go, Carlo, you ole fool."

"You just come with me an' I'll show you some fun. The trouble with you is, you don't come to see us often enough."

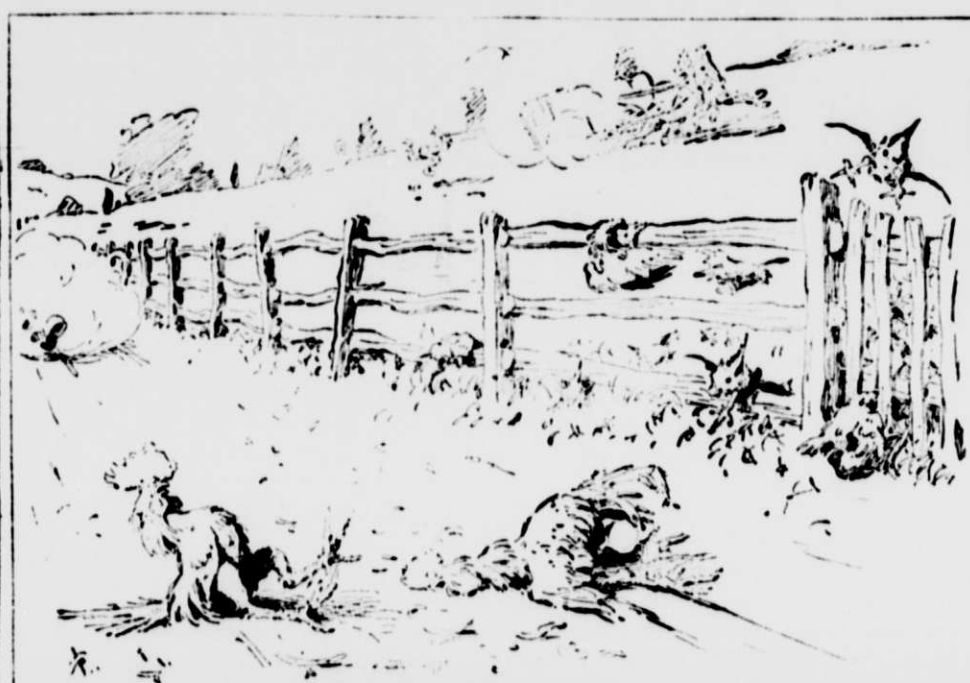

Carlo starts for home.

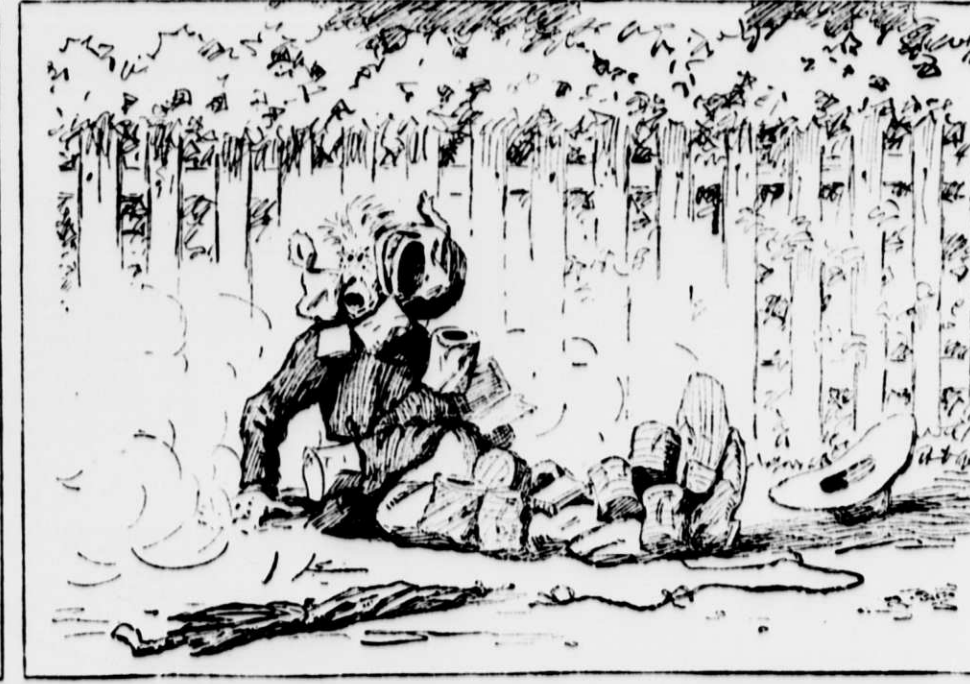

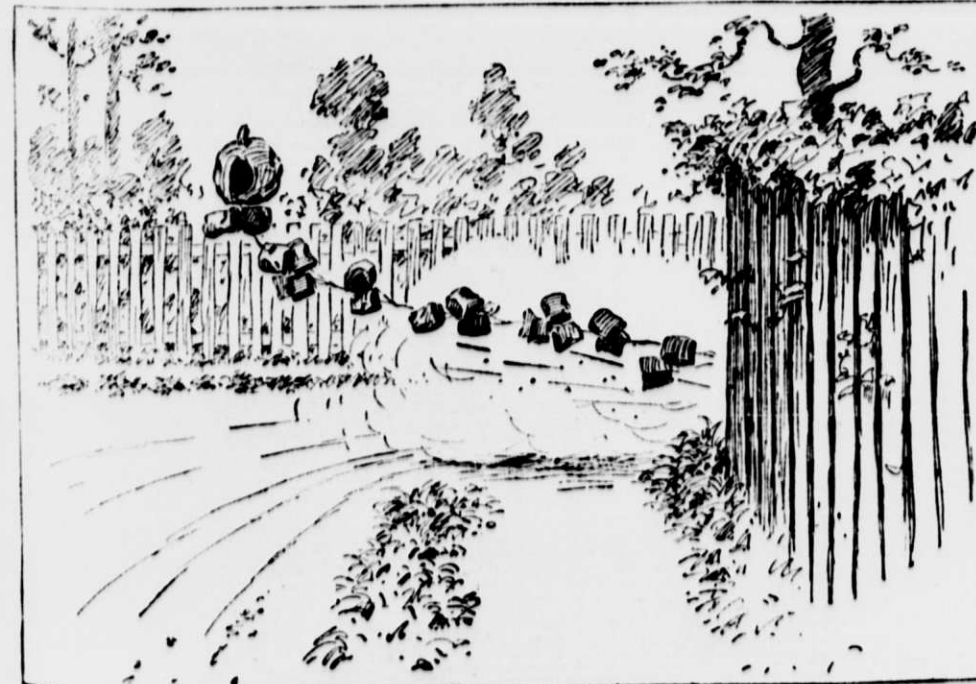

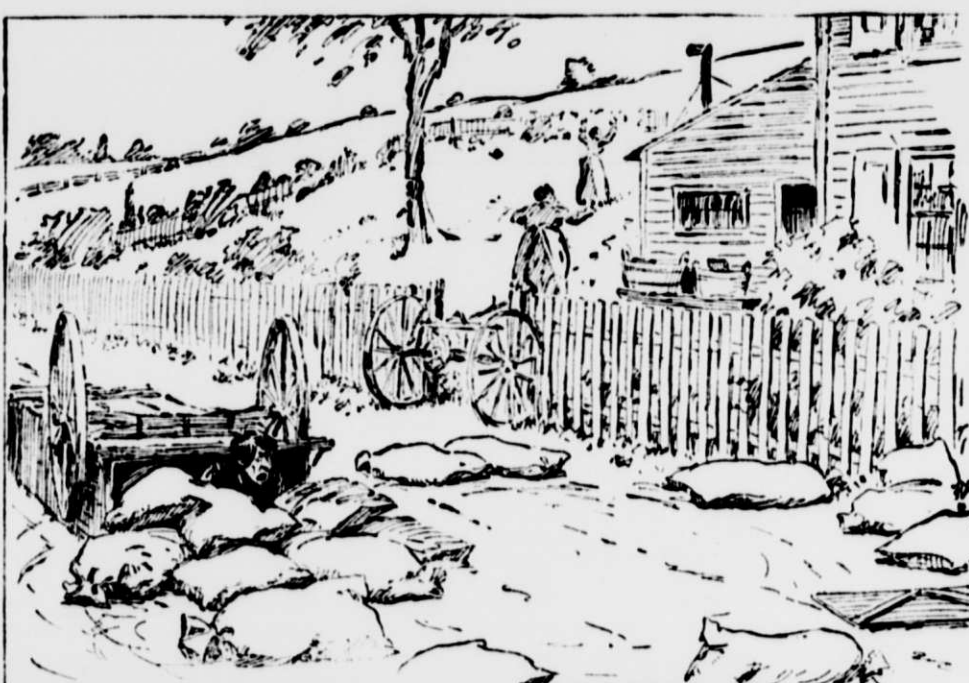

Uncle Silas uses his automatic for the first time.

Before Carlo passed the men were exercising the horses; afterward the horses exercised the men.

Carlo spoils a fight.

"Look at his tail, Patrick, it's all swolled up."
"It is that, an' if I knowed who'd been ill-treatin' that dawg I'd knock the head off him, so I would!"
